

Texas Art Takes the Stage in Chicago

By Peter Simek April 30th, 2010 3:24pm

If you happen to be heading up to Chicago this weekend, you won't be alone. Dallas Museum of Art curator Charlie Wylie will be in the windy city for the annual Art Chicago art fair where he will participate on a panel entitled "Big Culture: Contemporary Art in Texas." Wylie will be joined by Risa Puleo, Assistant Curator of Contemporary and American Art, The Blanton Museum, Sue Graze, Executive Director, Arthouse Texas, and Matthew Drutt, Executive Director, Artpace, in discussing Texas' culture, which is "anchored by innovative non profits, world class museums and unique cultural destinations."